CONDENSED TIMELINE OF THE F.O.E, LEVIDIANS AND ENT EMPIRE

Silviere, JH, JO, CWS

This Era was the time the Ent was waiting for all plans and actions had led to this. They were finally going to build their own business. And what they didn't know is that would have likely cost them all the money in the bank and the majority of the resources they had accrued over the years. Naturally when money was no longer readily available some new members fled while others rose to positions of power and stature through actions and sacrifice. This created what is often described as one of the toughest economical periods of the family and a period as defining as the very conception of the family "The third act". Moulded and hardened by the searing Flames of this time the members learned to become one with the flame and from it and each other drew their strength that gave them the will to rise and achieve great success. The F.O.Es has been reborn as the "Levidians" the "family of the phoenix"

Age 2 Spark of Ent Being successful in endeavours working as a force for others building businesses the service the F.O.Es offered grew past what they at that stage could contain. The doors of Ent were opened for the first time since the 75 Era and The NET new members flooded in bringing variety, skills, understanding and background to the Ent, some Di'Ursa Veh'lore worked and some conflicted so a new time of Storming, forming, norming and performing began. The Ent referred to this Era as the "mercenary" era. Working for others away from home at times to build success. Various minor sects were created during this period which would later be reformatted into the "Levidian society" members. Who were members who played some active role in one of the 4 major aspects of the Ent or its subsidiary but may not Third Act be publicly known or publicly active. This sector is often referred to as "the 400" and those who act as intermediates between them and the F.O.Es/Levidian family "the 100"

Age 3 Flame of Ent

Infinity Era Pt.1

In the second era of infinity things were much more stable. During this period members that were recruited as staff in the early stages had worked their way up to becoming full-fledged Levidians themselves being awarded family status for their hard work and sacrifices during the early stages and being invited now to share in the rewards. Finally, a time had come where all those years of hard work of planting, watering, nurturing seeds without seeing usable results had passed as now we could see fruits growing

Despite the challenges of the third act with many setbacks including their first facility being rejected and closed before it even opened due to structural issues discovered post-acquisition leaving them with even less resources. The Family of Ent somehow survived (with a few new scars and traumas) and was able to build and successfully launch their first business despite no startup using guile, skill, and negotiation alongside a little community support. The originals worked for free every day for 24 hours each day on rotation for many months taking nothing as the business was not yet strong enough to sustain them. But what was strong enough was the team and the bond they had which was shaped and hardened by their experience and history.
