TRAITS

- ◆ Compassionate — Savanah has a strong capacity to care about what other people are experiencing. She is naturally conscious of feelings and wants the people around her to feel supported and understood.
- ◆ Supportive — She is someone who will encourage others, listen when they need to talk and offer reassurance when they are struggling.
- ◆ Sociable — Savanah enjoys people, conversation and shared experiences. She can bring energy into social environments and naturally contributes to the atmosphere around her.
- ◆ Emotionally perceptive — She is sensitive to changes in people's moods and behaviour and can often recognise when something is wrong even when it has not been directly said.
- ◆ Loyal — The relationships she values matter deeply to her. She invests emotionally in the people she loves and wants those relationships to remain strong.
- ◆ Expressive — Savanah is capable of showing her emotions and personality openly. People generally know when she is excited, passionate, amused or deeply invested in something.
- ◆ Creative — She has an appreciation for expression, aesthetics, entertainment and experiences that allow personality and individuality to come through.
- ◆ Encouraging — She has an instinct for building people up and helping them recognise their own strengths, particularly when they are doubting themselves.
- ◆ Energetic — When engaged with something she enjoys, Savanah can bring considerable enthusiasm and personality to it.
- ◆ People-oriented — She naturally places importance on relationships and human connection. She is interested not only in what needs to happen, but in how the people involved are doing.
- ◆ Fun-loving — She appreciates enjoyment, humour and experiences that create good memories.
- ◆ Caring — Beneath many aspects of her personality is a genuine concern for people. Helping someone feel better, included or less alone matters to her.

PERSONALITY

- ◆ Warm and approachable — Savanah has a personality that can make it relatively easy for people to engage with her. She enjoys conversation, laughter and making people feel comfortable around her.
- ◆ Naturally social — She enjoys being around people, going out, sharing experiences and having opportunities to connect. Social interaction is an important source of enjoyment and expression for her.
- ◆ Emotionally expressive — Savanah tends to experience and communicate emotions openly. Her enthusiasm, affection and concern for others can therefore be particularly visible.
- ◆ Compassionate towards vulnerability — When somebody is struggling, her instinct is often to understand what they are experiencing rather than immediately judge them for it.
- ◆ Supportive without being detached — She does not simply recognise that somebody needs help; she can become personally invested in seeing them get through whatever they are facing.
- ◆ Playful and energetic — Savanah enjoys humour, entertainment, music, dancing, gaming and simply having fun. She can bring a lively energy to environments where she feels comfortable.
- ◆ Creative and expressive — She enjoys areas that allow identity and personality to be expressed, whether through music, beauty, fashion, entertainment or the way an experience is put together.
- ◆ Relationship-driven — The quality of her relationships can matter enormously to her. She values feeling connected to people and wants the people she cares about to know that they matter.
- ◆ Sensitive but resilient — She can be emotionally affected by situations precisely because she cares deeply. However, sensitivity does not prevent her from recovering, adapting and continuing forward.
- ◆ Protective of others — Her compassion can become considerably firmer when someone she cares about is being mistreated.
- ◆ Inclusive — She has a natural appreciation for people feeling welcomed and involved. She can be particularly conscious of individuals who might otherwise feel overlooked.
- ◆ Heart-led — Although she can think practically, Savanah's strongest instincts frequently come back to people—how they feel, what they need and whether they are being treated with care.

OVERALL

Overall, Savanah is a warm, expressive and people-oriented person whose greatest strengths are rooted in compassion and human connection. She enjoys socialising, creativity and having fun, but beneath that lively exterior is someone who can care very deeply about the experiences of others.

She is capable of bringing energy when people need lifting, reassurance when they need support and genuine empathy when they simply need someone to understand.

This combination of compassion, loyalty, emotional awareness, support and social connection is a large part of what makes her O'Cen — and why Compassion is such a natural representation of her within Levidier.
