

THERE ARE PEOPLE WHO BECOME PART OF A STORY
EVEN WHEN THEY ARE NO LONGER PRESENT FOR EVERY CHAPTER.

As Levidier moved forward, circumstances changed. Life changed. Responsibilities changed. There were moments when continuing to build meant moving forward, even when it meant walking different paths from people who once stood closely beside us.

But we felt the pain of every loss, regardless of the circumstances of the parting. Because beneath everything we build, our deepest desire has always been simple: for family to remain together.

BUT MOVING FORWARD DOES NOT MEAN FORGETTING.

Despite the pain, the wheels of life continue to turn, and each of us must keep pace if we are to continue growing, building and thriving. Levidier continuing forward without you may, at times, have made it seem as though your absence did not matter — as though because the wheels kept turning, you had somehow become irrelevant to the journey.

THAT WAS NEVER TRUE.

If our continuing forward ever made you feel that way, we are truly sorry. If you ever felt forgotten, unseen, or as though your place meant nothing, know that this was never the case.

*Your absence was felt. Your presence mattered.
You were loved as you loved us, and what we shared was real, even when our paths took us in different directions.*

We believe family is more than proximity. It is connection, loyalty, shared history, and the knowledge that what we experienced together mattered. We may not always walk the same road at the same time. We may grow differently, disagree, lose contact, or find ourselves separated by circumstances none of us wanted or expected.

But some people leave fingerprints upon what we become.

You were here. You contributed. You mattered.

Nothing about moving forward can rewrite that.

So wherever life has taken you, know that we remain grateful for the road we shared. Time and distance do not have to permanently close a door that was once open.

Our paths may cross again. They may not. But either way, the part of the journey we shared remains part of our story — and part of the people we became because of it.

Some chapters end. That does not mean the people within them are forgotten.

LEVIDIER

